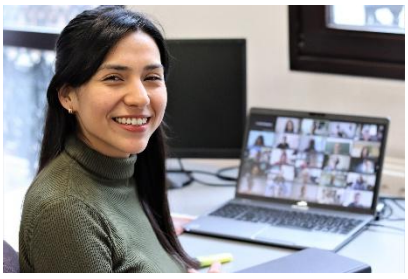
Job opening – language teacher

Online Conversation Practice – Korean

Linguapolis, the language institute of the University of Antwerp, is looking for a Korean language teacher for the Online Conversation Practice (low intermediate level) from November 11 until January 27. There is one session per week, for ten weeks, each time from 19.30 to 21.00. The sessions, 15 hours in total, take place on Wednesdays. For this type of course, the sessions are fully live online.

As a language teacher guiding the Online Conversation Practice sessions, you facilitate social interaction in the target language in an online environment. You know how to stimulate lively conversation and connect the practice of the language with cultural elements. In doing so, you create a warm, welcoming, and safe atmosphere in which every participant is encouraged to speak freely. You provide targeted language support through constructive corrections.



Linguapolis offers you the opportunity to share your passion for language with motivated, highly educated students. A database with inspirational material, practical tips, and a manual are provided by Linguapolis. In addition, you develop material based on current events and today's society according to the Linguapolis methodology. A digital learning environment is available for the online sessions. An experienced colleague will support you in getting started. You are responsible for having a stable internet connection and optimal audio and video quality.

For this collaboration, we work with invoicing on a freelance basis. You will be informed about the rates and terms of the collaboration during the application process.

Job Requirements

- ✓ Linguistic education at master's level or equivalent competencies
- ✓ Teacher training or equivalent experience
- ✓ Flawless command of Korean (CEFR C2)
- ✓ Ability to work independently
- ✓ Customer friendliness and attention to quality
- ✓ Strong in facilitating group discussions
- ✓ Accurate follow-up of administration

Assets

- ✓ You have Korean teaching experience and/or followed didactics training
- ✓ You have experience with online teaching
- ✓ You have experience living abroad (ERASMUS stay, volunteer work, ...)
- ✓ You know multiple languages
- ✓ You have affinity with the target group of language learners
- ✓ You are familiar with Blackboard, the digital learning environment of the University of Antwerp, and Zoom, the online video platform used for the online sessions

Application Procedure

Send your CV no later than 21/09/2026 to onlineconversationpractice@linguapolis.be.

- In your CV, describe your teaching experience.
- Your experience with online teaching is also relevant: specify which tools and platforms you have used.

If you are invited for an interview, we will ask you to give a 15-minute trial session at the level you are applying for. The interviews will take place between September 22 and 28. On September 28, you will know whether you can teach during this period or if we will include you in the recruitment reserve. The next series of Online Conversation Practice starts in February.