A warm start at the Faculty of Law

You do not have to find your way on your own.

Are you a new international Master of Laws student at the Faculty of Law of the University of Antwerp? Starting your studies in a new university, city or country can be exciting and sometimes a little overwhelming. A buddy can help you settle in more quickly and confidently.

Your buddy is an experienced fellow student who can answer practical questions, share useful tips and help you get to know student life at the Faculty of Law and in Antwerp.

How can a buddy help you?

- Be a friendly first point of contact for practical questions.
- Help you find your way around campus and the Faculty of Law.
- Explain how classes, exams and everyday student life usually work.
- Share study tips and insider tips about living in Antwerp.
- Help you meet other students and feel part of the community.
- Offer encouragement during your first weeks at the university.

What do we expect from you?

- Take initiative: contact your buddy when you have questions or would like to meet.
- Communicate openly: no question is too small, and it is fine to say when something is unclear.
- Respect appointments: be on time, let your buddy know if you cannot attend and respect their availability.
- Take ownership: use your buddy's advice to become more independent step by step.
- Be respectful and discrete: treat your buddy and your conversations with care.

Good to know

A buddy is not an academic adviser, administrative officer or counsellor. They are a fellow student who can help you find your way and point you in the right direction when you need professional support.

Give yourself a good start.
