Tefillah and Jewish Knowledge

Nederlands Genootschap voor Joodse Studiën (NGJS)

Dutch Association for Jewish Studies

The NGJS annual conference aims to bring together researchers in the Netherlands in the field of Jewish Studies to share current research and to jointly reflect on current trends and issues in the field. It further aims to facilitate collaboration between researchers and to connect junior and senior scholars.

Prayer is a key phenomenon and key concept in Jewish Studies. Sooner or later every topic in the field will bring researchers into contact with liturgy and/or prayer. The silent omnipresence of prayer in Jewish history is as discrete as it is enigmatic: precisely what is tefillah, what does it do, and how does it work?

Such questions are not always easy to answer, yet they have significant implications across the field of Jewish Studies and beyond. What is prayer and how does it work? Is it a substitute for (superior) Temple sacrifice, a format for communicating and striking deals with the divine, a form of social contract, a political instrument, an educational tool, or ...? What structures of knowledge are embedded in Jewish prayer? And how does prayer in its turn structure—Jewish and other—knowledge?

This workshop takes a multidisciplinary approach to these questions. Colleagues and students are invited to reflect on their own encounters with prayer and liturgy. Together we will look at tefillah and Jewish knowledge from the perspective of materiality, textuality, history, theory, philosophy, and theology. Guided by experts, we will explore manuscripts and printed prayer books from the rich collections of the Rosenthaliana library in Amsterdam. Lectures and short papers will offer a tour through centuries of Hebrew poetry and prayer while addressing fundamental questions relating to methodology, aesthetics, and the history of ideas. We hope that this workshop will generate new and fresh perspectives by looking across textual corpora, across historical periods—from antiquity to modernity—and across Jewish Studies disciplines.
