

Project Management for postdocs

Strengthen your skills in project definition and execution!

Content

During this training we will focus on the following objectives:

- Gaining insight into the philosophy and meaning of project management
- Learn to assess when project management is appropriate and when it is not
- Understanding the methodology of project management: framework & stage gate process related to tackling projects
- Being able to use tools and techniques to manage projects: project definition, project planning, project follow-up, project closure
- Insight in and tools for handling the human aspects of project management, such as mobilizing employees for the project, communication, cooperation with the different project roles, teamwork and project leadership
- Learning together through the exchange of experiences with project management between postdocs

Target group

Postdoctoral researchers of the University of Antwerp

Planning and location

November 13 2023 (9h-17h): training, Stadscampus, room to be confirmed

November 20 2023 (9h-17h): training, Stadscampus, room to be confirmed

November 6 2023: Prior to the training, the trainer will plan a number of interviews with some of the participants so that the training can be prepared in the best possible way. These (online) discussions take place on November 6th in the afternoon. Please block this date in your agenda.

Trainer

Annelies Loosveldt, project and change manager, trainer and facilitator.

How to subscribe?

You can use this link, upon approval of your supervisor (deadline: October 31 2023, max. 10 participants).

We look forward to your participation!

Talent Center

postdocs@uantwerpen.be